

CAPTURE OF THE CAPITAL, THE POWERS THAT WILL FIGHT: RI$E OR NWE

✍MsLadyGrim

Since MrBigDEnergy's presidential ouster, RI$E has dominated power for two consecutive terms and is seeking a third. NWE seeks to return to power with two new industrialists—five from the former Why So Serious (WSS) alliance—joining its membership. 3A

BATTLE FOR THE 8K. WHO WILL CONQUER THE LEVEL 6 TERRITORY?

✍zunyah

There are only two days left until we find out which alliances will complete their territorial conquest in DarkWar Survival. With tensions growing over who will secure third place in the rankings on server #89, what do the numbers say? 2A

HEADLINE OF GOSSIP SNIPPET

✍La ReiNa

LAKE 3. - VICTORY IS UNITY. - DILEMMA. 3A

EDITORIAL POLICY - LUXURY TIME

Luxury Time is a media outlet committed to delivering excellent content that informs, inspires, and connects our audiences with the world, sophisticated lifestyles, and global trends, always upholding the highest standards of integrity and journalistic rigor. 4A

EDITORIAL COUNCIL

Presidenta: Toresana [#89]

La ReiNa [#89]

zunyah [#89]

MsLadyGrim [#89]

MutedStyle [#89]

We're looking for a graphic designer and translator. Join the Editorial Council and get the latest gossip.

CARTOONS

✍MutedStyle, La ReiNa

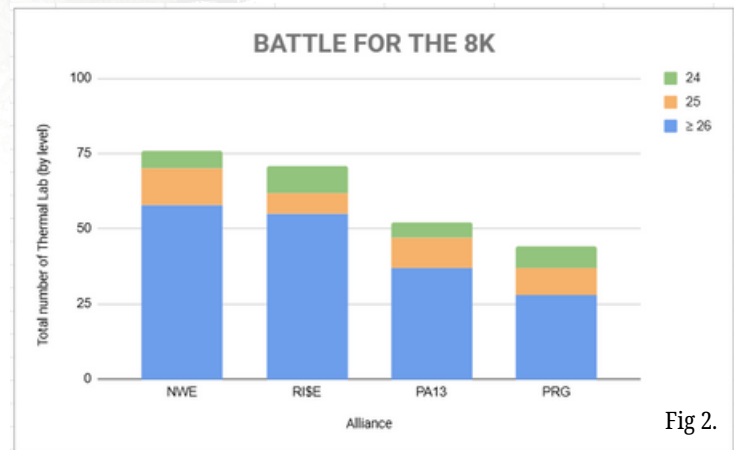

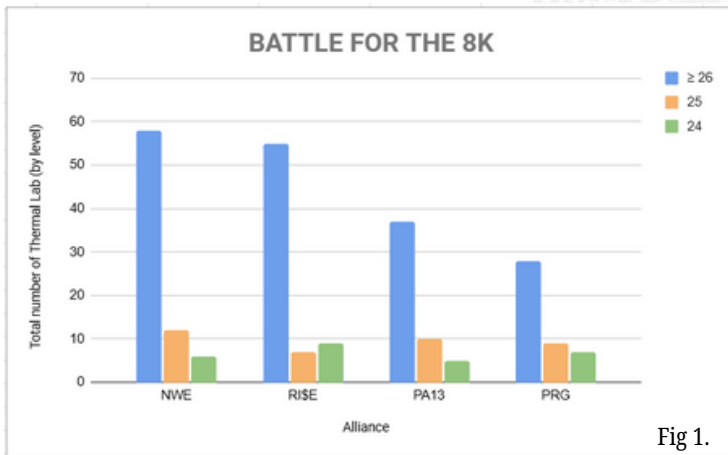

See page 5A

BATTLE FOR THE 8K. WHO WILL CONQUER THE LEVEL 6 TERRITORY?

✍️Zunyah

Only 2 days left to find out which alliances will complete their conquest of territories in DarkWar Survival. With growing tensions over who will secure third place in the ranking on server #89, what do the numbers say?

Fig 1. A count has been made of the total number of thermal labs for each alliance, considering buildings of level 26 or higher (the required level for the 8K) in blue, buildings of level 25 in orange, and finally, buildings of level 24 in green. Fig 2. Shows the total number of members in each alliance, including all levels ( $\geq 26$ , 25, and 24), that have reached or could reach the required goal for the Level 6 territory.

Regarding buildings of season level 26 or higher, it is noticeable that NWE and RI$E stand out considerably compared to PA13 and PRG. In practice, they would be the best-prepared alliances to face a Level 6 territory (58 and 56 members respectively at that level). PA13 drops to a total of 37 members, while PRG is in last place with 28. The numbers are less significant when considering players at level 25 or 24 in the thermal labs, with all alliances showing similarities. (Fig 1)

When analyzing the probability of members reaching the 8K target in two days, NWE is the highest with 76 members (76%), closely followed by RI$E with 71 members (73.19%). The differences between PA13 and PRG are reduced to a total of 8 members, with PA13 at 52 players (52%) compared to PRG's total of 44 (44.44%). (Fig 2)

Therefore, it is expected that NWE and RI$E will potentially be the alliances that take control of 2 of the 3 Level 6 territories, while the fight for the last territory will focus on PA13 and PRG, with PA13 having a slight advantage as long as current numbers do not change due to external factors.

CAPTURE OF THE CAPITAL, THE POWERS THAT WILL FIGHT: RI$E OR NWE

✍MsLadyGrim

Since MrBigDEnergy's presidential ouster, RI$E has dominated power for two consecutive terms and is seeking a third. NWE seeks to return to power with two new industrialists—five from the former Why So Serious (WSS) alliance—joining its membership.

Just hours before the end of State 89's fourteenth presidential term, under President Fear Srb, power is once again being contested. We contacted Mr. Wujo, R5 of RI$E, who stated that "maybe we'll take the capital, but we'll see who's sober on Saturday first." We asked about the name of the next president, and he assured us it will have "6 letters."

Before Fear Srb's inauguration as the fourteenth president of State 89, we contacted Mr.BigDEnergy, R5 of NWE, about the dispute over the capital, and he assured us that "NWE will participate in the next Battle of the Capital."

With the departure of SpicyJo and Mr 69, industrial 5 with more than 500 million powers, from WSS and the union with NWE, the alliance under the leadership of MrBigDEnergy once again becomes the most powerful in State #89, surpassing RI$E with the difference of, as of the closing of this note, 180,982,423 of power.

---

GOSSIP SNIPPET

✍La ReiNa

LAKE 3. The gossip revolves around RI$E, who wanted to keep Lake 3 for himself, as if it were his own property. Mr.69 didn't think twice and dropped the magic word: "greedy." A real drama, really. And of course, McFifa came out and said that "everything was discussed at the NAP," as if that justified anything. But the point is clear: Mr.69 gave them a good slap on the wrist and reminded them that we play as a team here. The ending was like a movie: Mr.69, like a hero of the people, thanked Server 89 and the NAP, leaving everyone with the feeling that, in the end, loyalty and camaraderie weigh more than any lake.

VICTORY IS UNITY. In the heat of the battle for Arctic Lake, BeeJade's message has been a breath of fresh air. Her call to stop "attacking each other" and to understand that mistakes are part of the journey reminds us of the true lesson of this event. BeeJade invites us to replace criticism with conversation, finger-pointing with mutual support. With only one Level 3 Lake, selfishness is the true enemy. The only way to move forward, to "RI$E," is to learn to be one team. In the end, the most valuable strategy is not in the game, but in the ability to grow together.

DILEMMA. Sr69's recent post reveals the frustration of someone who feels misunderstood. Despite admitting his "somewhat rude" tone, he defends the logic of his original position: the impossibility of a single team dominating Level 3. For him, the true strategy was always teamwork, but his honesty earned him the role of "villain." The conflict isn't centered solely on the NAP, but on the struggle to be heard. His proposal for "lake rotation" demonstrates that his intention wasn't to dominate, but rather to seek a fair agreement. In the end, Sr69's comment makes us question whether the stigma of the "villain" can silence a voice of reason.

EDITORIAL POLICY - LUXURY TIME

✍ Editorial Team

Luxury Time is a media outlet committed to delivering excellent content that informs, inspires, and connects our audiences with the world, sophisticated lifestyles, and global trends, always upholding the highest standards of integrity and journalistic rigor.

Our work is guided by these fundamental principles:

1. Truth and Accuracy

All our publications are based on verified information and reliable sources. We ensure that all data is cross-checked before publication, avoiding speculation and sensationalism.

2. Impartiality and Balance

We cover topics and trends from various sectors through a plural perspective, presenting diverse voices, contexts, and points of view so that readers can form their own opinions.

3. Editorial Independence

We maintain full autonomy from commercial, advertising, or political interests. Our editorial decisions are made solely with our audience's best interests in mind.

4. Respect and Responsibility

We are committed to avoiding unnecessary harm or offense, promoting respect for people, cultures, and the environment. We especially protect the rights of verified minors and vulnerable groups.

5. Transparency and Accountability

We promptly acknowledge and correct any published errors, informing our audience clearly and openly through an official Erratum Notice.

6. Audience as a Priority

We actively listen to our readers, adapting our content to their needs and expectations, fostering a long-term relationship of trust.

7. Editorial Decisions

All editorial decisions are discussed and approved in advance by the Editorial Assembly.

8. Content Independence

All content reflects the creative vision of its respective author. Every publication follows our editorial line, but contributors retain full freedom over what to create. The Editorial Council has no mandate to dictate the subject matter of our collaborators' work.

At Luxury Time, we believe that quality journalism not only informs but also inspires. Our mission is to offer an accurate, diverse, and elegant reflection of the world of luxury—always with responsibility and editorial excellence.

CARTOONS

✍ MutedStyle, La ReiNa

✍ La ReiNa

✍ MutedStyle